DETAILED ACTION

Applicants' arguments, filed 2/2/04, have been fully considered but they are not deemed to be persuasive. Rejections and/or objections not reiterated from previous office actions are hereby withdrawn. The following rejections and/or objections are either reiterated or newly applied. They constitute the complete set presently being applied to the instant application.

LACK OF ENABLEMENT REJECTION

Claims 1-13 and 186 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

Factors to be considered in determining whether a disclosure would require undue experimentation have been summarized in Ex parte Forman, 230 USPQ 546 (BPAI 1986) and reiterated by the Court of Appeals in In re Wands, 8 USPQ2d 1400 at 1404 (CAFC 1988). The factors to be considered in determining whether undue experimentation is required include: (1) the quantity of experimentation necessary, (2) the amount or direction presented, (3) the presence or absence of working examples, (4) the nature of the invention, (5) the state of the prior art, (6) the relative skill of those in the art, (7) the predictability or unpredictability of the art, and (8) the breadth of the claims.

Art Unit: 1631

The Board also stated that although the level of skill in molecular biology is high, the results of experiments in genetic engineering are unpredictable. While all of these factors are considered, a sufficient amount for a prima facie case are discussed below.

This rejection directed to a lack of enablement for the synthesis of the elected compounds of claim 186 is maintained and reiterated from the previous office action, mailed 9/2/03. Applicants argue that synthesis is disclosed via the foreign document EP 603,783 A1. In response the synthetic enablement of the elected compounds is essential subject matter for the practice of the instant invention and that it is improper to enable essential subject matter by incorporation by reference to a foreign document. See the below set forth paragraph in response to this argument.

The incorporation of essential material in the specification by reference to a foreign application or patent, or to a publication is improper. Applicant is required to amend the disclosure to include the material incorporated by reference. The amendment must be accompanied by an affidavit or declaration executed by the applicant, or a practitioner representing the applicant, stating that the amendatory material consists of the same material incorporated by reference in the referencing application. See In re Hawkins, 486 F.2d 569, 179 USPQ 157 (CCPA 1973); In re Hawkins, 486 F.2d 579, 179 USPQ 163 (CCPA 1973); and In re Hawkins, 486 F.2d 577, 179 USPQ 167 (CCPA 1973).

Applicants also argue that pyrylium dye compound research has been conducted over many years and described in numerous articles and authored publications. In response this argument is an allegation without factual support and therefore non-persuasive. Additionally, a specific set of compounds are under examination at present and the synthesis of such a specific set must be enabled and is not enabled by generic nonspecific pyrylium compound disclosures.

SCOPE OF ENABLEMENT REJECTION

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for intercalation for insertion of compounds of formula [9], such as set forth in claim 11, as the manner of resulting in a detectable luminescence in the claimed methods (subject to satisfying the above lack of enablement rejection), does not reasonably provide enablement for generic providing of a chemiluminescent compound as set forth in claim 1, for example. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the invention commensurate in scope with these claims.

Factors to be considered in determining whether a disclosure would require undue experimentation have been summarized in Ex parte Forman, 230 USPQ 546 (BPAI 1986) and reiterated by the Court of Appeals in In re Wands, 8 USPQ2d 1400 at 1404 (CAFC 1988). The factors to be considered in determining whether undue experimentation is required include: (1) the quantity of experimentation necessary, (2) the amount or direction presented, (3) the presence or absence of working examples, (4) the nature of the invention, (5) the state of the prior art, (6) the relative skill of those in the art, (7) the predictability or unpredictability of the art, and (8) the breadth of the claims.

Art Unit: 1631

The Board also stated that although the level of skill in molecular biology is high, the results of experiments in genetic engineering are unpredictable. While all of these factors are considered, a sufficient amount for a prima facie case are discussed below.

This rejection directed to a lack of scope of enablement for the manner of resulting in a detectable luminescence is maintained and reiterated from the previous office action, mailed 9/2/03. Applicants argue that various methods are disclosed in the instant disclosure including YOYO-1 practice, however, do not present any argument regarding the manner of resulting in luminescence regarding the elected compound. Therefore this argument is not directed to the basis of the rejection and thus non-persuasive.

No claim is allowed.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicants are reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
